That the clams have played better ball is a fond recollection; no excuse. Yesterday's spectucle put them beyond redemption. Kidder allowing eighteen hits, seven of his nine opponents getting from two to four aplece, and his support making six bad blunders as against an errorless game by the Rlos. It is a wonder that the score was only 12 to 4 in favor of the latter. The Short Line nine is rapidly decomposing. Something must happen if they expect to make a showing against any league team.

The game started out bad enough, and why the clams should have made it worse as they went along is a difficult matter to determine. How they managed to make it so rotten is still more difficult. Spencer's Ride Suspicious.

Unfortunately, the result of the race left an unsavory feeling, as Spencer's ride on Ethelbert was so bad that it looked atmost criminal. He appeared to be in a trance, and only woke up when too late to win with the favorite. who says they answered the descriptions of the four men in the hold-up at Table Rock. A posse was at once organized in Encampment and the chase taken up at that point.

Rawlins, Wyo., Sept. 8.—United States Marshal Hadsell has gone to Saratoga to investigate the report that the four Union Pacific train robbers were seen near Grand Encampment.

Marshal Hadsell states that the trail of the robbers was lost the first time on account of the outlaws resorting to an old trick in riding into a bunch of horses and traveling with it for several miles, it being impossible to tell which tracks were made by the robbers' horses after they left the bunch. The trail was found again, however, last Sunday, but lost the next day owing to a heavy rainstorm the night before washing out all traces of the trail. At one of the camps the officers found where the robbers had burned a large quantity of papers.

Last Saturday a horse was found which had been abandoned by the robbers. Marshal Hadsell recognized the animal, and the clue thus furnished will be investigated further.
